NCKCN To Start New Email Server Migration

We are going to initiate an Email Server Migration in the next few weeks to update our Email Servers to offer you the best service for the latest Operating Systems and the latest devices. This process will move your NCKCN account and email from our old servers to the new servers automatically. All you need to do is check and use your NCKCN email. That includes downloading your email, or using the Web Mailman, or checking your email on your device, just like you normally do. The key is to use your NCKCN email service to check your email to initiate the transfer.

There is nothing that you have to do different, except that we ask you try and check your email often, and please not let it accumulate on the server for a while. The process works much faster and more efficient if there's not a huge amount of email to migrate over. We'd also ask that you be patient with the process. It's rather complicated, and logging in to your email account can take longer than usual. This is all done though to make it as transparent as possible for our members to migrate all your accounts and email.

As always, we strongly recommend that you do NOT save messages on the server at any time. This is generally never a good idea since your email server storage will get filled up fast and you will not be able to receive any more email. If you have been saving your email on the server, please download it off as soon as you can. If you haven't been saving email on the server, we thank you and you should migrate very easily.

We plan to gradually initiate the migration process, so hopefully all will go well. However, even the best laid plans can have bumps in the road. Tech Support is aware of the Migration and will try to help if there is an unforeseen problem.

We appreciate your patience and understanding with this process and hope the enhanced and updated servers will make your online experience even better.

Short Tutorial - How To Perform A Search On Twitter

Your Twitter timeline is great for helping you stay updated, entertained, and connected. But did you know you can also search the entire Twitterverse for information? Here's how it works:

1. Locate the search box at the top of your Twitter home page or app.
2. Type in your search term and enter.
3. The results will reflect everything on Twitter, including tweets and users.
4. In the full version, narrow the results by choosing from the selections in the left-hand column. If you're using the app, view these selections by tapping the "refine results" icon at the top of your screen.
5. As an alternative search method, click or tap a hashtag within a tweet to find all tweets with the same hashtag.

With 300,000 new tweets posted each minute, it's likely you'll find what you're looking for!
