NCRPC Establishes Endowment Fund

The NCRPC is excited to announce the establishment of a new endowment fund dedicated to supporting science education and the arts in the area.

The initial contribution to this fund was donated by North Central Kansas Community Network Co., an affiliate of the North Central Regional Planning Commission, in recognition of long-time employee Todd Tuttle. Todd currently serves as Technical Consultant to NCKCN. He joined the organization in 1999 and has held various positions throughout his tenure, including Systems Manager of North Central Kansas Community Network (NCKCN) and Assistant Director of North Central Regional Planning Commission.

"Creating an endowment has always been a personal goal of mine because I see the potential it has for positive impact and long-term sustainability," says Tuttle. "Our fund is just beginning, but this is an important first step, and I am excited to see the impact it can have in our region."

As the fund grows, the goal is to foster an active role in the fields of science and the arts in the area. Possible initiatives may include internships and mentorship opportunities in astronomy, financial assistance for local classrooms to support education in these fields, and more.

The NCRPC has partnered with the Solomon Valley Community Foundation to manage the endowment and is participating in the foundation's Give to Grow event on April 30. This one-day giving event offers a matching incentive to build capacity and endowments for participating nonprofits. Any contributions made to the NCRPC Fund on that day will be matched up to 100 percent, pending funding availability. To participate in the Give to Grow event, visit <https://www.givetogrowmc.com>.
